

COMPLAINTS HANDLING POLICY

OUR COMPLAINTS POLICY

Co-Counsel is committed to providing a high-quality service to its clients. This includes a commitment to putting things right when they go wrong.

If at any point you become unhappy or concerned about the service Co-Counsel has provided then you should inform us immediately, so that we can do our best to resolve the problem.

In the first instance it may be helpful to contact the person who is working on your case to discuss your concerns and we will do our best to resolve any issues at this stage. If you would like to make a formal complaint, then you can read our full complaints policy set out here. Making a complaint will not affect how we handle your case.

This policy explains how we will deal with any complaint that is referred to us. Examples can include the way in which you have been dealt with, the quality of advice you have received or any invoice that you have received.

OUR COMPLAINTS PROCEDURE

First stage resolution

If you have a complaint, please contact the lawyer that you have been dealing with in the first instance. They will work hard to resolve the issue. If she or he does not deal with it to your satisfaction, please contact either Anjanette Pavell or Lisa Patmore, who are the directors of Co-Counsel, choosing a director who has not had direct conduct of the matter. You can contact them in writing by email, post or phone (using the details set out on the "Contact" page). We call this process "second stage resolution".

Second stage resolution

To explain to you how long the second stage resolution process might take we have included our target times for each stage of the process. Where, for any reason, it is not possible to observe any of these limits we will let you know and explain why.

Second stage resolution – what happens next?

1. On receipt of your complaint the relevant director will send you a letter acknowledging your complaint and might invite you to a meeting to discuss your concerns. We will open a file for your complaint in our system and the relevant director will examine the file that we have on the work that we have been doing for you. We aim to acknowledge your complaint within four working days of receiving it and will complete our initial examination within ten working days.
2. We might then invite you to a meeting or we will write to you to ask for further information. Alternatively we might write to you setting out our views on the situation and suggesting any redress that we would feel to be appropriate. We will aim to write to you with our views and any suggestions within seven days of completing our investigations.
3. Where we feel that we have failed in our standards we could offer an apology, a reduction of any bill or a repayment in relation to any payment received.
4. If, by this stage, you are still not satisfied, please let us know. It would be helpful to us if you could do so within the next twenty-one days but there is no obligation on you to do so. We will then arrange to review our decision. We would generally aim to do this within ten days of hearing from you. With your written agreement, we may ask an appropriate third party, independent of Co-Counsel, to consider the issue. We will be responsible for any costs of the third party.

5. We will let you know the result of the review within seven days of the end of the review and will do so by writing to you to confirm our final position on your complaint and explaining our reasons.

WHAT TO DO IF WE CANNOT RESOLVE YOUR COMPLAINT

The Legal Ombudsman may be able to assist you if we are unable to resolve your complaint ourselves. This is particularly if you are instructing us either as a consumer or a micro-enterprise (please check the European Union definition) so will not apply to all clients. They will look at your complaint independently and it will not affect how we handle your case. Before accepting a complaint for investigation, the Legal Ombudsman will check that you have tried to resolve your complaint with us first. If you have, then you must take your complaint to the Legal Ombudsman:

within six months of receiving a final response to your complaint and, no more than six years from the date of act/omission; or no more than three years from when you should reasonably have known there was cause for complaint.

If you would like more information about the Legal Ombudsman, please contact them as follows:

visit: www.legalombudsman.org.uk

call: 0300 555 0333 between 9am to 5pm

email: enquiries@legalombudsman.org.uk or write to: Legal Ombudsman PO Box 6806, Wolverhampton, WV1 9WJ

The Solicitors Regulation Authority can also help you if you are concerned about our conduct in relation to a matter or generally. This could be for things like dishonesty, taking or losing your money or treating you unfairly because of your age, a disability or other characteristic. You can raise your concerns direct with (and obtain contact details via) the Solicitors Regulation Authority.

Thank you for bringing your concerns to our attention. We will do our best to address any dissatisfaction that you have experienced in using the services of Co-Counsel. Our primary objective is to put things right.

CONTRACTS MADE BY ELECTRONIC MEANS

In addition, if you are a consumer client with whom we have made a contract by electronic means, you may be entitled to use an EU online dispute resolution service to assist with any contractual dispute you may have with us. Should you wish to do so that service can be found at <http://ec.europa.eu/odr>. Our email address for this purpose is admin@co-counsel.co.uk. [note as that, a result of Brexit, this dispute resolution facility will not be available after 31 December 2020]
